Innovations Best Practices

That Help Us Take The Big Leap.

That Keep Us On The Right Path.

The high quality of medical care we enjoy today is built upon years of effort by physicians, PhDs, and other medical professionals investigating the causes of and potential treatments for disease. The tireless effort of countless medical professionals has made many once life-threatening diseases and conditions a faded memory.

There is still much work to be done. Insights provided by medical research today promise to lessen the impact of today's greatest health problems, including diabetes, cancer, and heart disease. As science continues to unveil the molecular workings that underpin disease, we will see profound changes in the approach to treating disease.

JSS researchers are at the forefront in this revolution in medical knowledge. To capitalize on the advances that have been made in our understanding of disease, a majority of our research projects are translational in nature. Translational medical research seeks to take the medical discoveries that have been made in a laboratory setting and translate them into medical practices that can be used by physicians to improve the lives of their patients.

When you support medical research, you are helping medical researchers build the future of medicine. With the partnership of individual and corporate donors, we are able to make significant headway in advancing medical knowledge and improving patient care.

Message:

As JSS University looks forward with excitement to another year of excellence, I am pleased to share with you the progress and accomplishments of 2012-2013. With a clear vision to direct us, and the spirit and commitment of the university to propel us, we continue to produce students who serve the greater good.

Educational institutions, like all other organisations, require constant monitoring to identify areas for potential improvement. However, educational reforms are often not well-implemented. This results in a colossal waste of finances, human resources and potential.

“Change may be described as the adoption of an innovation where the ultimate goal is to improve outcomes through an alteration of practices”. However, the process of change is complex - with many different types of change possible. Further, there are a number of differing strategies for implementing these changes - with the success of implementation being highly variable.

As education institutions have characteristics in common with each of the preceding....., they may be likened to an organization undergoing change.

It is with the above concept, the present report of JSS University is placed before you with the theme of ‘Innovations and Best Practices’. I hope everyone finds this issue meaningful.

Message:

JSS University has grown from strength to strength since inception, and this annual report delineates the many milestones the university has crossed along the way. The journey has been filled with many cherishable accomplishments, and also a reminder about what still needs to be achieved in the future.

In earlier days, for any educational organization to excel, the hallmark criteria were a strong academic and research curriculum supported by committed and dedicated faculty and support staff. But in this competitive era, it is innovation and implementation of best practices that serve as the benchmark.

JSS University is blessed to have all of these, along with the necessary infrastructure. Support and encouragement by the management has resulted in many innovative programmes being introduced, and each of the constituent colleges excelling in their own field by implementing the best practices to enhance the learning skills for the students.

This annual report is a snapshot of the many best practices and the outcome of which have made this university excel amongst many others in the country.

On this occasion I congratulate the effort behind the preparation of the report and thank one and all who have made this possible.

Speech by the Chief Guest

Dr. Jagadish Prasad

Director General of Health Services, Govt. of India

This Holiness Jagadguru Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Mahaswamiji, Chancellor of JSS University, Sri B.N. Betkerur, Hon'ble Pro-Chancellor, Dr. B. Suresh, Hon'ble Vice-Chancellor, Members of the Faculty, Distinguished Invitees, Ladies and Gentlemen and my Young Friends who are graduating today:

I am delighted to participate in the third convocation of JSS University. Though it is a young university, it has the legacy of several decades of the JSS Institutions contributing to the higher education arena in this country. Moreover I feel that the spiritual guidance emanating from His Holiness Swamji's gracious blessings has made these institutions attain a respectful stature. I am well aware of the challenges that the health profession is facing in the continuously evolving scenario. I would, therefore, like to share some of my thoughts with the young graduates who are today stepping into the healthcare profession.

The healthcare scenario has been undergoing significant shifts globally as governments both in developed and developing countries are attempting necessary structural overhaul in their healthcare systems. While, on one hand, the burden of disease on the world economy has been rising, the increasing costs of healthcare delivery have also become a matter of concern. Each country, however, faces different issues in health.

India's significant achievements in the field of health have been made possible by the establishment of a huge rural health infrastructure, along with the formation of a massive healthcare manpower consisting of lakhs of trained doctors working under plural systems of medicine, a large number of nurses and other health care workers; primary and community health care centres and sub-centres; complemented by dispensaries and hospitals practicing Indian systems of medicine and homeopathy.

Now time has come to strengthen the public health care system as the standard of living of people is improving due to urbanization and industrialization. The Government has, therefore, decided to increase the expenditure on health care from 0.9% of GDP to 2.5% in the 12th Five Year Plan.

It is commendable that many private sector organizations have also been contributing in providing healthcare services to the needy. These organizations have joined hands with the government in providing quality healthcare to large populations across the various sections of the society. It gives me immense pleasure in knowing that JSS is one amongst them and with a long standing history of contributions to the upliftment of the society in numerous sectors by Sri Suttur Math that has upheld its legacy reflecting the true ideals of its erstwhile founders.

The various initiatives by JSS University through its medical college and hospitals in promoting quality healthcare and providing training to thousands of students in rendering their services to the needs of the society stand testimony to the ideals and values cherished by the Math. I am glad to note that the University has adopted the Suttur village and is striving to make it as a model village through sustainable rural health. The initiative is laudable and may provide a model for medical colleges on focusing on rural healthcare services and also inspire young graduates on their commitment to the nation in supporting sustainable rural healthcare by inculcating such values during their education.

I take this opportunity to congratulate all the young graduates who have chosen to carry forward this noble task and contribute significantly to the healthcare profession.

Learning is not finite, it is a lifelong process. This was well explained by Abraham Lincoln when he said "I don't think much of a man who is not wiser today than he was yesterday"

Similarly, Dr APJ Abdul Kalam has quoted that "A man, who graduated yesterday and stops learning today, will surely become uneducated tomorrow".

These words should be borne in mind by all the young graduates who are receiving their degrees today. Lifelong learning and continuous professional development are the buzzwords today. Lifelong learning is now recognized by educators, governing bodies, accreditation organizations, certification boards, employers, third-party payers, and the general public as one of the most important competencies that people must possess. Promoting lifelong learning as continuous, collaborative, self-directed, active, everlasting, positive and applicable to one's profession as well as all aspects of one's life has emerged as a major global educational challenge. Meeting this challenge will require changes in the way teachers teach and learners learn as teachers take on a more facilitative role and learners take more responsibility for setting goals, identifying resources for learning, and reflecting on and evaluating their learning.

Lastly, I would like to dwell on the issues relating to ethics in health care. In a world of health care economics, consumers, clients and service providers, health care has to be based on sound ethical principles that reflect the reality and needs of contemporary society. The practice of medicine and the practice of ethics are inseparable. Every clinical decision invokes an ethical decision as well. In many instances, the ethical issue may not be readily apparent. In others, conflicts arise between ethical principles and medical decisions, which require the clinician to be well versed with the former in order to guide the latter.

Without using too many words, I would like to state that as healthcare professionals, we must strive to provide some decent minimum level of health care for all citizens, regardless of their ability to pay.

Once again, I congratulate all the graduates, recipients of gold medals, honors and other distinctions. You are stepping into the health profession to carry out the noble task of nurturing the healthcare of the people and the country. You have to uphold the dignity of the profession through your words, deed and action. I pray to God to give you the strength to carry out this onerous responsibility without fear or favour. My best wishes to all of you!

The college has a cultural committee comprising faculty members and students of III B Pharm and III Pharm D. The committee conducts various cultural events for the students during National Pharmacy Week Celebrations every year. It also coordinates the participation of students in various cultural events conducted out side the college including JSS U Fest.

51st National Pharmacy Week Celebrations (NPWC), December – 2012.

IPA Nilgiris Local Branch co-organized the 51st National Pharmacy Week Celebrations (NPWC) with JSS College of Pharmacy, Udthagamandalam. This one week program was held from 1st December to 5th December, 2012.

With the blessing message from His holiness Jagadguru Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Mahaswamigalavaru of Suthur Mutt, Mysore the program was started. Our beloved Principal Dr. K. Elango invited the gathering.

The 51st National Pharmacy Week celebration was officially inaugurated by Dr. S. Paranjothi, Director, Tamil Nadu Medical and Rural Services. Dr. B. Duraiswamy, the president of Indian Pharmaceutical Association, Nilgiris local branch highlighted the purpose of Pharmacy week celebrations and various activities of IPA, Nilgiris local branch.

The chief guest of the function Dr. S. Paranjothi expressed his happiness about the infrastructure and development of our institution. He appreciated pharmacists' role towards creating the public awareness about health care. He also highlighted various government welfare schemes to the public in general.

Mr. G. Selvaraj, Director of Drugs Control, Chennai was the guest of honour on that day. During his address he expressed his happiness about our college students having been appointed as drug inspectors recently.

A key note address was given by Dr. Suresh K Mohankumar, the alumnae of our institution, presently working as a research associate in department of internal medicine at University of Manitoba, Canada on the theme "Challenges and Opportunities for Pharmacist in Easing Global Health Burdens", which was interesting and informative to our students.

Dr. B. Suresh, the Vice chancellor of JSS University, Mysore and President of Pharmacy Council of India was presiding over the inaugural function. In his presidential address he has highlighted the global opportunities and avenues for pharmacists.

With the vote of thanks from Mr. K.P. Arun, Assistant Professor, Department of Pharmacy Practice the inaugural function was concluded.

From the same afternoon the cultural events were started and continued colorfully till the valedictory function on 5th December, 2012.

About 14 solo and 20 groups, a total of 34 events were conducted to bring out the talents of our students. For many events topics of social and professional interest were given to the participants. I, II, III year B. Pharm and Pharm D, first year post graduate students with IV and V Pharm D students took active participation and showcased their talents in all the events.

We invited about 65 judges form in and around Ooty who are all from different heights of society like, Medical professionals, Business people, Academicians, members of Rotary club, etc. Almost all the judges had the same opinion that "it was very difficult to judge the best performances" as every event was very entertaining and highly meaningful.

For these 34 events about 500 prizes were awarded to the participants.

We also had a classic entertainment by two highlight programmes given by our out going students of final B. Pharm (Titans), M.Pharm and Pharm D students on two pleasant evenings. Apart from the cheduled programmes, we were also entertained by the exiting guest performances by the teaching and non – teaching staff members and their children.

In a nut shell, the one week program had filled our hearts with joy, nourished our minds, stimulated our nerves and last but not the least given some valuable message to the student community and to the common society.
